If that thy prosperouse and artificiall fate,
Can draw him but to answere thee in ought
Thy sacred Phisicke shall receiue such pay,
As thy desires can wish.

Mar. Sir I will vse vtermost skill in his recouerie, prouided that none but I and my companion maid be suffered to come neere him.

Lys. Come, let vs leaue her, and the Gods make her prosperouse.

The Song.

Ly. Marke he your Messicke?

Mar. No nor lookt on vs.

Lys. See she will speake to him.

Mar. Haile sir, my Lord lend eare.

Per. Hum, ha.

Mar. I am a maid, my Lord, that nere before inuited eyes, but haue bene gazed on like a Comet: She speakes my Lord, that may be, hath endured a griefe might equall yours, if both were iustly wayd though wayward fortune did maligne my state, my derivation was from aunceslers who stoode equiuolent with mightie Kings, but time hath rooted out my parentage, & to the world, and ankwarde casualties, bound me in seruitude, I will desist, but there is something glowes vpon my cheeke, and whispers in mine eare, go not till he speake.

Per. My fortunes, parentage, good parentage, to equal mine, was it not thus what say you?

Mar. I sed, my Lord, if you did know my parentage you would not doe me violence.

Per. I do thinke so, pray you turne your eyes vpon me, your like something that, what Countrey women heare of these shewes?

Mar. No, nor of any shewes, yet I was mortally brought forth, and am no other then I appeare.

Per. I am great with woe and shall deliuer weeping: my dearest wife was like this maid, and such a one my daughter might haue beene: My Queenes square browes, her stature to an inch, as wandlike-straight, as siluer voyst, her eyes as Ie well-like, and cast as richly, in pace another Iuno. Who starues the eares she feedes, and makes them hungrie, the more she giues them speech, Where doe you liue?

Mar. Where I am but a straunger from the decke, you may discerne the place.

Per. Where were you bred? and how atchieu'd you these indowments which you make more rich to owe?

Mar. If I should tell my hystorie, it would seeme like lies disdaind in the reporting.

Per. Prethee speake, falsnesse cannot come from thee for thou lookest modest as iustice, & thou seemest a Pallas for the crownd truth to dwell in, I wil beleeue thee & make senses credit thy relation, to points that seeme impossible, for thou lookest like one I loued in deede: what were thy friends? didst thou not stay when I did push thee backe, which was when I perceiu'd thee that thou camst from good discening. Mar. So indeed I did.

Per. Report thy parentage, I think thou saidst thou hadst beene tost from wrong to miurie, and that thou thoughts thy griefs might equall mine, if both were opened.

Mar. Some such thing I sed, and sed no more, but what my thoughts did warrant me was likely.

Per. Tell thy stone, if thine considered proue the thousand part of my endurance, thou art a man, and I haue suffered like a girle, yet thou dost looke like patience, gazing on Kings graues, and smiling extremitie out of act, what were thy friends? how ve lost thou thy name: my most kinde Virgin recount I doe beseech thee, Come sit by me.

Mar. My name is Marina.

Per. Oh I am mockt, and thou by some insenced God sent hither to make the world to laugh at me.

Mar. Patience
